Collaborate for Measurable Impact

Alex Huang

Alex has been part of a workstream looking to automate the client's user provisioning process. The team (Deloitte and client) has been very impressed both by the quality of Alex's work and the level of professionalism that he has brought to the role. He has delivered enormous value with very little assistance from the rest of the team and will be a key reason behind the project's success in delivering user provisioning automation. Very well done Alex!
